ACPL shall issue a certificate when the client complies with, all the requirements for certification. All certificates issued by ACPL shall remain the property of ACPL and must be returned when requested. The certificates are issued for a period of three years and have validity as stated in the certificate. After the issue of the certificate the client is authorized to use the certification mark or the logo in advertising matter in conformity with the following requirements.

Certified Client information: the name, related Standard, scope and geographical location (city and country) for a specific Management System is verified through website. (www.acmeregistrar.com]

ACPL has documented process/ rules governing any management system certification mark that it authorizes certified clients to use. These rules ensure, among other things, traceability back to the ACPL. There shall be no ambiguity, in the mark or accompanying text, as to what has been certified and which certification body has granted the certification. This mark shall not be used on a product nor product packaging nor in any other way that may be interpreted as denoting product conformity.

ACPL never permits its marks to be applied by certified clients to laboratory test, calibration or inspection reports or certificates.

ACPL has governing the use of any statement on product packaging or in accompanying information that the certified client has a certified management system. Product packaging will be considered as that which can be removed without the product disintegrating or being damaged. Accompanying information will be considered as separately available or easily detachable. Type labels or identification plates will be considered as part of the product. The statement should in no way imply that the product, process or service is certified by this means. The statement will include reference to:

- Identification of the certified client;
- The type of management system and the applicable standard;
- ACPL as a certificate issuer.

ACPL has provision through legally enforceable arrangements require that the certified client: (Certification Agreement- ACPL05)

- a) Conforms to the requirements of the ACPL when making reference to its certification status in communication media such as the internet, brochures or advertising, or other documents;
- b) Does not make or permit any misleading statement regarding its certification;
- c) Does not use or permit the use of a certification document or any part thereof in a misleading manner;
- d) Upon withdrawal of its certification, discontinues its use of all advertising matter that contains a reference to certification, as directed by the ACPL;
- e) amends all advertising matter when the scope of certification has been reduced;
- f) Does not allow reference to its management system certification to be used in such a way as to imply that the certification body certifies a product (including service) or process;
- g) Does not imply that the certification applies to activities and sites that are outside the scope of certification;
- h) Does not use its certification in such a manner that would bring the ACPL and/or certification system into disrepute and lose public trust.

ACPL exercises proper control of ownership and takes action to deal with incorrect references to certification status or misleading use of certification documents, marks or audit reports.

ACPL action includes requests for correction and corrective action, suspension, withdrawal of certification, publication of the transgression and, if necessary, legal action.
